HONORING A LOCAL HERO

This month we are honoring a local hero, Congresswoman Lois Frankel. From her days as a working mom and now as she describes herself—a working grandmother, Congresswoman Lois Frankel has spent her life delivering positive change to her community as a civic leader, state legislator, mayor, and now Member of the United States House of Representatives.

She currently sits on the House Appropriations Committee where she serves on the Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies and the State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs subcommittees.

A trailblazer in the Florida State Legislature, Lois served as the first woman Democratic minority leader.

She became a leading force to improve the economic condition of families and seniors, and to protect human rights and women's reproductive freedom - fights she continues today in Congress as Chair of the Democratic Women's Caucus.

Prior to her election to Congress, Lois served as Mayor of West Palm Beach, raising her city to a new vitality and earning a reputation as an innovative problem solver.

On a personal note, Lois is an avid abstract painter who is very proud of her son, and even more proud to be “Lolo” to her grandsons.

At Silver Injury Law We Have Been Known to Walk "The Last Mile"

At Silver Injury Law we've been known to walk the "last mile" for our clients meaning that, when liability is uncertain or disputed, we will literally walk the "last mile" on the roadway before an accident happened so that we can see what the other motorist should have seen but didn't. We are mindful that, while we will move on to the next case, our clients only have one case so we conduct our own investigations to turn over every stone so that Justice can be allowed to prevail. Absolutely nobody is as thorough as me and my team in our

Study: Advanced Tech Could Help Prevent 250,000 Traffic Deaths Over 30 Years — But It's Not a 'Silver Bullet'

STREETBLOGUSA.ORG

By: John Besche

Even the imperfect advanced driver assistance systems (ADAS) available to consumers today could prevent up to 37 million crashes in the years between 2021 and 2050, a new report finds — but the researchers behind it emphasize that they're not the same as "autonomous cars," and certainly not a "silver bullet" to end traffic violence.

According to a new report from AAA's Foundation for Traffic Safety, today's ADAS technologies could prevent up to 14 million fewer injuries and 250,000 fewer deaths on U.S. roads over the next 30 years. Those reductions would translate to a plunge in injury and fatality totals of 16 and 22 percent, respectively, even without further improvements to the technology, which currently struggles to reliably brake at the deadliest speeds or when confronted with pedestrians on unlit roads after dark.

Florida's enhanced 'Move Over' law goes into effect

CBS NEWS

BY: By John MacLauchlan

Florida drivers have been required to move over for first responders, tow trucks, and municipal vehicles on the side of the road.

With the start of the new year, new laws go into effect including an enhanced 'Move Over' law. Drivers are required to move over for a disabled vehicle displaying either its hazard lights, emergency flares, or emergency signage. Violators could be cited with a noncriminal moving violation and a fine of up to $158.

"AAA has advocated for a stronger move over law through our 'Move Over for Me' campaign, and are glad to see it come to fruition," said AAA spokesman Mark Jenkins. "The roadside is a dangerous place for anyone, whether it's a first responder or a daily commuter. We hope this enhancement to the current law will save lives by reminding drivers to give extra space when passing anyone on the roadside."
